

MANAGED PROCUREMENT SERVICES IN ACTION

High pressure processing juice company

CHALLENGE

A European-based high pressure processing juice company wanted to expand their footprint into the United States. To do so, they needed the right supply chain processes and technology in place to get their fresh juices to market affordably and efficiency

SOLUTION

We built and established a customized supply chain – as well as provided the technology capabilities they could plug into that fit the company’s immediate needs and could scale to meet future needs

RESULTS

Our supply chain technology provides visibility to their entire domestic supply chain, capabilities to facilitate orders, and connectivity with their retailers and DCs as the company expanded their business throughout the United States. In addition, our perishable consolidation services help ensure product gets to retailers around the country on time, at the right temperature
